ABBOTT THE LEADER.

THE MANTLE OF SIR JOHN ON SMALL SHOULDERS.

The First Signer of the Annexation Manifesto of 1849 Now Leader of the Government—Sir John Thompson First Sent For but Declined the Honor.

Special to the TIMES.]

OTTAWA, June 13.—In conformity with the desire of His Excellency, Hon. J. C Abbott has consented to form an administration. This has been arrived at after considerable difficulty.

Sir John Thompson was asked to form a Government but was unable to do so in accordance with my previous dispatches. There is not likely to be any other changes in the Cabinet for the present, but ere long it will have to be entirely reconstructed. If the Government can live, which very few here imagine it can, all legislation of any consequence will be dropped and an effort made to get the estimates through as early as possible. Dalton McCarthy goes to England and the dual language agitation will be stopped. The appointment of Abbott, who was the first to sign the annexation manifesto of '49, does not give general satisfaction. The Liberals have no cause to grumble.

Methodist Conference.

TORONTO, June 13.—The Methodist Conference has elected Rev. D. T Matthews, president, and Warring Kennedy secretary of the Conference. This is the first time a layman has been elected to such a position in Canada.

Abbott the Man.

MONTREAL, June 13.—A London cablegram says the Times, in a leader, refers to Mr. Abbott as probably the most acceptable successor of Sir John Macdonald.

The Marquette Murder.

WINNIPEG, June 13.—Wm. Pattenden, the young Englishman who murdered Mrs. Rodway, at Marquette, has been arrested and committed for trial.

The N. P. and Mineral Lands.

HELENA, Mont., June 13 —The most important decision yet rendered in the contest growing out of the mineral land cases along the line of the Northern Pacific Railway, was handed down by Judge Sawyer in the United States Circuit Court to-day. The case was that of the Railway against R. P. Barden and others. In 1888 Barden tore up a mineral claim about three miles from Helena on a section of land granted to the Railway by an act of Congress. By this act the mineral lands were withheld from the Railway. The road filed its map of the proposed route through Montana in 1882. The miners of the state have all along contended that the exclusion of the mineral lands included that known to be mineral at the time the building of the road was in progress. Barden's case was backed by the Mineral Land Association of the State and was submitted to Judge Sawyer, whose opinion is exhaustive, and is in effect that to include any lands granted the Northern Pacific Railway they must have been known to be mineral prior to the location of the line in 1882. Judge Knowles, of the United States District Court, dissents from the opinion, and the case will be carried to the Supreme Court. If the decision stands it will give the Railwys a title to some of the best paying mineral lands in Montana and Idaho.

It was Kept Quiet.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The Times this morning says: Four months ago the New York Life Insurance Co. issued a printed statement to its Spanish American policy holders signed by the Director General of that department, Joaquin Sanchez, stating that Julius Backer, the company's Spanish American agent, had retired from business because of ill-health. Simultaneously with that announcement Backer disappeared from the company's offices and his whereabouts since that time have been unknown. Yesterday the Times learned that he had defaulted for a large amount variously stated at from $300,000 to $500,000. First Vice-President Tuck who is a son-in-law of President Beers and second Vice-President Welch were called upon at the company's offices and asked to affirm or deny the report. They both admitted, after consultation, that the defalcation had taken place but declined to state what amount of loss. They said that they did not know; Mr. Welch admitted very frankly, however, that it was in excess of $150,000 but when asked to name an approximate figure he declined to. The officers firmly insisted that the company would ultimately retrieve its losses and that it would in no sense suffer from Backer's operations.

The Esmeralda.

PANAMA, June 12, (via Galveston).—The Chilian insurgent man-of-war Esmeralda, which reached here several days ago from Acapulco, and was permitted to take on a supply of coal from the stock of the Panama Railway Co., sailed last night. She proceeded South.

The Pensacola.

IQUIQUI, (via Galveston), June 13.—The U. S. S. Pensacola left at noon today for Callao. Her hull will be repaired and two of her beams will be strengthened before she proceeds on her voyage around the Horn.

Gold Payments Suspended.

BUENOS AYRES, June 13.—Public opposition to the measure caused the passage of the bill which was to suspend gold payments six months.

Lightning's Effects.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., June 13.—The electrical storm which swept over this section of the state yesterday afternoon caused a loss of life and a destruction of considerable property. At Hammonton Daniel Cross and his two children were instantly killed by a bolt of lightning. Damage done at Ashbury Park amounts to $30,000.

FEAST OF ST. ANTHONY.

The Miracles Wrought by Father Mollinger by Faith Cure.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—This is a great day for Father Mollinger, and incidentally for the wearied pilgrims who flock to see him. It is the feast day of St. Anthony, the father's patron saint, and from whom he claims he has healing powers outside of his medical attainments. The scene and incidents of today, in the vicinity of the Church of Most Holy Name, are without precedent and beyond description. A low estimate places the number of people that filled the church yard and streets surrounding it at 10,000 people during early religious services within the church. The surging mass of pain-racked patients were upon their knees in the streets, gutters, sidewalks, reciting prayers constantly and invoking the help of God in their afflictions. At the close of masses Father Mollinger would appear at the church door and then pass through the kneeling crowd, giving to them words of encouragement. The crowd which emerged from the church at the close of mass was a strange one; more than half were cripples. Some were carried by friends, others were leading the blind. About 9 o'clock Father Mollinger again appeared, bearing high above his head a gold box, in which were the miracle-working relics. He again passed through the throng, exhibiting the precious bones of St. Anthony to the view of the multitude. When the bell announced 10 o'clock, the jam surrounding the door was terrific. Many of the invalids were carried upon the shoulders of friends. Others less favored were crushed by the jam and ceaselessly begged for relief, which police officers were wholly unable to afford. Father Mallinger's commanding voice soon restored order, and the church was quickly filled. During the services those outside again bared their heads and knelt where they stood. This morning, Miss Ella Bresnahan, of Scrantou, Iowa, who arrived three days ago almost blind appeared evidently cured. This afternoon each person will be given the special blessing of Saint Anthony and receive a touch from the relic of Saint Anthony. There will also be a benediction at 4 o'clock.

NANAIMO NEWS.

A Banquet—Rescued by Blue Jackets—Another Rape Case in Court.

NANAIMO, June 13.—Mr. Clinton, paymaster of the Union colliery, was tendered a banquet on Thursday by the employees of the company. Mr. Little occupied the chair and in doing so had many pleasant things to say of the former. After the cravings of the inner man had been appeased, Mr. Short rose and presented Mr. Clinton with a beautiful set of silverware, and a marble clock, in token of the esteem in which he is held by those working with him. A beautiful address accompanied the presentation, to which Mr. Clinton made a very eloquent and touching reply. The event is said to have been a most joyous one and seldom has anything been given in the district where so much harmony prevailed. The party broke up in the early hours of the following morning well satisfied with the manner in which the banquet had passed off.

JACK TARS TO THE RESCUE.

Yesterday afternoon a man repaired to the boat house and hired a small sailing craft to enjoy a ride on the waters of the harbor. He had not proceeded far when he encountered a stiff breeze coming from the direction of the gap and his boat suddenly keeled over. The man thinking the wind too strong for him, attempted to jibe the boat and the result was that he immediately capsized, and he was precipitated headlong into the water. The accident was witnessed by the officers of H.M.S. Nymphe, who sent a boat well manned to rescue the man and their experience soon enabled them to right the boat and tow it safely to shore.

CRICKET MATCH.

A cricket match between an eleven from H.M.S. Nymphe vs. the Nanaimo club took place in this city yesterday on the cricket grounds. The game was a spirited one, but it was seen from the start that the visitors were overmatched, or taking their opinion that said: "The Nanaimo team has some first class players among them." The result was that the visitors were beaten, only making 18 runs for their innings against 79 to Nanaimo. However, both sides enjoyed the game.

ANOTHER RAPE CASE.

Shepherdson Vipond was arrested on Thursday night on a charge of rape. The case was brought before the court yesterday, and the charge preferred against the prisoner. His victim is a little girl named Isabella Sinclair, aged 12 years, and the case is said by the doctors to be a most violent one. After hearing the doctor's evidence, the bench decided to remand the case until Tuesday next, to await developments.

KILLED IN THE MINE.

A miner named John McEarlane met with his death last night while at his work in No. 1 shaft of the V. C. Co.'s mines. The deceased was working on one of the levels, when a face of rock gave way and buried him beneath it. He was quickly extricated from his awful position, but life was found to be extinct. There will be a coroner's inquest held on the body to-day.

LITTLE EVENTS.

Mr. G. Williams, agent for the Bank of British Columbia, and Miss Stannard were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at St. Paul's church this morning by the Rev. J. B. Good.

Mayor Hilbert will give another cup for a sculling match, to take place on June 25th.

The Nanaimo hose-reel team will go to Fairhaven, to compete in the contest in that city, on July 4th.

CUMMINGS' DISMISSAL.

THE ERASURE WAS NOT BY ORDER OF THE QUEEN.

Some Pointed Questions Will be Asked in Parliament To-Morrow—Feeling in the Army Against Royalty at the Head—Other European News.

LONDON, June 13.—The erasure of the name of Sir William Gordon-Cumming from the army list is generally commented on as showing the entire subserviency of the Cabinet to royalty. The report that the Queen personally ordered the erasure is denied on high authority. It is said to have been the act of the Hon. Edward Stanhope, Secretary of War, after consultation with the Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief and cousin of the Queen. Stanhope, who is a brother of the Earl of Stanhope, has done all that he could for months past to shield the Prince of Wales in connection with the baccarat affair, and he was resolved to have no inconvenient investigation of the charge against Sir William. The questioning in Parliament on Monday will, however, be none the less pointed because Sir William Gordon-Cumming has been disposed of, and the Home Secretary as well as the Secretary of War will have a delicate problem to settle. The movement for dispensing with a royal figure head for the army has received a new impetus from the recent exposure. It is a singular fact that great English generals have ever been nominal commanders of the army, that the post has been held by some representative of royalty who has never seen a battle. The withdrawal of the Duke of Cambridge from the office of Commander-in-Chief has long been desired even by the Cabinet and will now be pressed.

BREAD RIOTS FEARED.

The agitation in Berlin over the corn duties has become so serious that the ministry has ordered a strengthening of the garrison. There is no talk of an outbreak, but the popular feeling is intense and a bread riot is possible, as there are thousands of utterly destitute people in the city without the new element that is flocking in from other parts, adding to the destitution and to the struggle for employment. The police have become more vigilant in enforcing the laws against vagrancy, but the evil continues to grow and the multitude of unemployed increases with the prices of bread. Caprivi remains obstinate and it is believed that he will yield to the popular outcry before it has had time to become more formidable.

PARNELL'S MARRIAGE.

It is rumored to-day that Parnell's marriage with Mrs. O'Shea will take place during the coming week. Parnell has subsided somewhat of late, the reason is that he is spending nearly all his spare time in the company of Mrs. O'Shea. That lady is said to look remarkably well by those who have seen her lately, and as being elated over the prospect of her marriage to Parnell. Her daughters, however, adhere to their father, contrary to the prevalent impression, and will, it is said, have no more to do with their mother after her marriage. As the mother is wealthy, however, and their father poor, cynical society whispers that they may change their minds.

THE FRENCH PREPARED.

The French garrisons along the German frontier were all summoned to arms about midnight on Tuesday night, and put through a course of drill in the way of resisting an attack by an enemy. The flashing of lights, the clanking of guns, and the commands of officers sounding on the quiet air, almost created a panic, until it was learned that this was only a part of the plan of the French war office for keeping men always prepared for war, that every Frenchman believes is to come. The French statisticians are congratulating the people on the fact that the standard of the new conscripts, both physically and mentally, is higher now than of recent years, showing that the French are improving, instead of going back, as a nation.

Chinese Missions Assailed.

LONDON, June 13.—Dispatches from Shanghai announce that fresh attacks are continually being made upon Christian missions in the interior. In one case the troops were sent by the Chinese government to quell the disturbance, joined the rioters at Takatang where the lady missionaries fled for safety, serious rioting occured. The ladies have arrived at Kin Kidny, a treaty port on the Yang-Tse-Kiang river. Reports were also received that great excitement was prevailing among the inhabitants about Lake Po Yang, Province of Kiong See, where several missions have been burned.

Panama Canal Proceedings.

PARIS, June 13.—Leclair says that unless the Government proceeds against De Lessep's shareholders in the Panama Canal enterprise, he will formally present charges against him, together with his son, Chas. DeLesseps and directors Baron Poisson, M. M. Cattu, and Fontane. Charles DeLesseps had not been notified of the institution of proceedings. If such proceedings should be incited, he would hail them with satisfaction as helping to effect the realization of his father's plans to complete the construction of the canal.

Reform Recommended.

VIENNA, June 13—It is estimated that the Budget Commission Reichsrath shows a surplus of $1,899,250. Attention is called to the necessity of inaugurating tax reform and currency regulations. The Minister of Finance declares that he is considering measures to relieve small tax payers of the burden imposed on them.

New Paper at Rome.

ROME, June 13.—The Jesuits are arranging to start a weekly journal, printed in English, in this city. The editor will be a prominent member of the Society of Jesuits. The name of the paper will be the Roman Messenger.

Irish Opinion.

DUBLIN, June 13.—The Express (Liberal-Conservative,) says the outbreak of public feeling that followed the baccarat scandal was ominous for the monarchy. England will not forget the character and habits of the Prince of Wales as revealed at the trial. The result is that as an institution, the monarchy is connected in the minds of people with bad associations. In conclusion it says the dismissal of Sir Wm. Gordon-Cummings from the army will be regarded as a severe rebuke to popular sympathies.

The Prince's Debts.

LONDON, June 13.—It is rumored that the Prince of Wales is indebted to the Barings in a large amount, and is being pressed for payment by the liquidators of the company's affairs. It is this alleged fact, it is said, which led to the recent relation of the financial condition of the Prince. Young Arthur Stanley Wilson, chief baccarat witness, is represented to have come to the assistance of the impecunious Prince, with a loan of £500,000 wherewith to meet the Baring's claim.

More Condemnation.

LONDON, June 13.—A resolution has been adopted by the Southern Baptist Association, condemning the Prince of Wales for the baccarat scandal. A copy of the resolution was forwarded to the Prince.

General Persecution.

ST. PETERSBURGH, June 13.—Jewish persecution is spreading to all foreigners in Asia. A secret order has been signed by Prince Koropatkin.

Gladstone Ill.

LONDON, June 13.—Gladstone is confined to his bed with slight illness. The presence of a physian is unnecessary.

THE SCANDAL DISCUSSED.

The Prince of Wales Denies Having Revealed Secrets.

LONDON, June 12.—It is understood the Prince emphatically and indignantly denies that he revealed the secrets of the Tranbycroft affair to anybody.

Frequent conferences are being made by the War Office officials, who are discussing the baccarat verdict. Yesterday, the Duke of Cambridge, field marshal and commander-in-chief of the forces, summoned Gen. Owen Williams and Col. Stanley, in command of the Scots Fusilier Gurads (Comming's regiment), to the Horse Guards, where they held a prolonged interview with him.

On Monday next, in the House of Commons, William Summers (Liberal) member for Huddersfield, and Henry Peyton, Radical Nonconformost member for Rugby Division of Warwickshire, will question the Secretary of State for War, as to what course he intends to pursue with regard to the three officers—Field Marshal the Prince of Wales, General Owen Williams, and Lieutenant Berkely Levitt of the Scotts Fusilier Guards—who signed the document which practically allowed Sir William Gordon-Cumming to remain an officer in the British army, notwithstanding his conduct at Tranbycroft. The Secretary of State for War will also be asked what action he proposes to take in regard to the same officers for having disobeyed the army regulations which call for the bringing of such cases to the attention of commanding officers.

The Earl of Cadogan, Lord Privy Seal, bearing a letter from the Queen, had a long conference to-day with Lord Salisbury in regard to the position of the Prince of Wales, in view of the cry caused by the baccarat scandal. The Cabinet meets to-morrow to decide upon the answers to be made in the House of Commons to the questions which will be made by the members of the Opposition on Monday as to what the Government proposes to do in reference to the famous precis and its signers. It is rumored that the Prince of Wales, in order to relieve the Duke of Cambridge from his embarrassing predicament, has expressed his willingness that a military court should be convened to make an enquiry into the circumstances, regardless of the rank and title of the offenders involved in the condemnation of Sir William Gordon-Cumming's offence.

ROYALTY SHAKEN UP.

TORONTO, June 12.—Rev. Dr. Douglas, of Montreal, visited the Toronto Methodist Conference to-day. In the course of a ferved address Dr. Douglas said: "England's widowed Queen, England's noble, self-sacrificing Queen, mourns to-day of the ghastly spectre of George the Fourth rising up beneath the shadow of our great throne, and the very heir of the proudest empire the world has ever witnessed, bowing to the degredation of the gambling house. The awful spectacle of the heir to the throne publicly acknowledging his complicity in the transaction, will do more to weaken the throne than anything that has happened in years." Rev. Dr. Potts of Toronto said:—"Often have I burned with indignation at the degradition heaped upon our royal family by responsible American newspaper correspondents, but the day has come when we must all bow our heads in shame for what has been established in the Court of the land."

SOUTH PACIFIC STATES.

Driven From Behring Sea and now Driven From the South.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—The fleet of sailing vessels belonging to this port have lost one of their best hunting grounds. For years it has been the custom of sealers when revenue cutters harrassed them in Behring Seas or when the seals were run into the sea and grew too small they spent several months in the South Pacific. This season two vessels returned with exceptionally large catches from Maquiari Island. The action of the United States in barring sealers from Behring Sea recently caused Tasmanian officials to pass an act prohibiting seal catching in the South Pacific with extensive sea boundaries. Sealers found near the island will risk arrest and forfeiture of their vessels. This is considered a hard blow to the sealing fleet in the South Pacific.

NANAIMO NEWS NOTES.

The Nymphe in Port--For the Mayor's Cup--Finger Cut Off.

NANAIMO, June 12.—It is not often the citizens of Nanaimo have the pleasure of seeing an English war vessel enter the harbor, and as soon as the Nymphe came in yesterday preparations were actively made to visit the vessel. Through the kindness of the officers they were enabled to do so and large numbers availed themselves of the opportunity and were delighted with the visit. As soon as it became dark the search light was thrown all over the city and scores of people could be heard breathlessly asking, "what's that?" probably some superstitious legend entering their mind at the time, but when explained to them they became all right again. The Nymphe will leave again on Saturday morning for Comox.

THE MAYOR'S CUP.

There were no less than seven starters in the sculling match last evening for the mayor's cup, which, by the way, is a handsome trophy. Every boat was hired by those who were anxious to witness the contest. Cavaisky took the lead and maintained it for a considerable distance, when he was slowly overhauled by John Bell, who came in winner by a few boat lengths. The race was one of the most interesting that has taken place in the city and the course round Protection Island enabled the observers to get a good sight of it.

A WORTHY OBJECT.

Mr. E. M. Yarwood is engaged in getting up a petition to present to the Government for the commutation of sentence passed on John Adderton at the winter assize for an aggravated assault on his daughter-in-law. Adderton was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, and at the time the public thought it was too severe, knowing as they did the character of the prosecutor, and it was immediately rumored that a petition would be got up in his behalf. He has also shown himself to be an industrious, hard-working man, and is greatly respected by the people who know him.

WE NEED A SWIMMING BATH.

It is an old saying, "the wants of the people of Nanaimo are many," but very few of the monied people attempt to relieve these wants and make themselves benefactors. It is noticeable that whatever new business is started in this city it pays right away, still many are afraid to enter into a new business. What is needed here in the summer months is a good swimming bath, as at present the citizens are not allowed to bathe on the beach only within certain limits and then the beach is not suitable for such a purpose. If a bathing house was erected here it would well repay the enterprizing citizen for his venture.

LITTLE EVENTS.

The Y. M. C. A. picnic, which was largely patronized yesterday, was badly managed and many were disappointed in enjoying themselves.

The funeral of Alede Ambrose, aged 28, a demi monde, took place yesterday, being in charge of Mayor Hilbert. Plenty of floral tributes decorated the casket, having been furnished by her friends in Victoria and this city.

Michael Connolly, an employe of the Nanaimo Saw Mills, had one of his finger tips cut off on Wednesday while assisting to lay the foundation stone for the new gang saw.

Mayor Hilbert is building a new residence adjoining his extensive warehouse, which takes up half a block on the street.

More From South America.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Post prints an article on foreign affairs, relating to the attitude of the United States in the dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela. The Post asserts that its utterances are based upon authentic information. The Post, speaking of Venezuela's, Commissioner Dr. Pulido to Blaine says: "Blaine expressed the deep interest which the United States felt in the settlement of the boundary question. The interest thus felt is partly due to the friendly feeling paramount to this, however, he added significantly, was the belief that future greatness and undisturbed autonomy of the western hemisphere demanded that the mouth of the Orinoco should not be controlled by foreign maritime and commercial powers like Great Britain."

What it Costs

Must be carefully considered by the great majority of people, in buying even necessities of life. Hood's Sarsaparilla commends itself with special force to the great middle classes, because it combines positive economy with great medicinal power. It is the only medicine of which can truly be said "100 Doses One Dollar," and a bottle taken according to directions will average to last a month.

Engine and 25 cars are a mass of broken wood, twisted and thrown into the bottom of a deep ravine. Conductor, engineer and breakman were killed.

Sad Accident.

Maurice Morey, a young man employed in the B.C. Iron Works, Vancouver, met with a very sad accident on Thursday afternoon. He was working at an emery wheel, when it suddenly broke and a piece of iron flew up and hit him on the head, fracturing his skull. The injured man was conveyed to the hospital as quickly as possible, when his wound was dressed by Dr. Bell-Irving. There is no hope for his recovery. The man is about 30 years of age, and has just come out here from Peterborough, Ont. He had only commenced work that day at 1 o'clock and five hours later the accident happened.

From Friend to Friend

Goes the story of the excellence of Hood's Sarsaparilla and what it has accomplished, and this is the strongest advertising which is done on behalf of this medicine. We endeavor to tell honestly what Hood's Sarsaparilla is and what it will do, but what it has done is far more important and far more potent. Its unequalled record of cures is sure to convince those who have never tried Hood's Sarsaparilla that it is an excellent medicine.

Winter Sports.

The gay winter season exposes many to attacks of colds, coughs, hoarseness, tightness of the chest, asthma, bronchitis, etc., which requires a reliable remedy like Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam for their relief and cure. Known as reliable for over thirty years. The best cough cure.

Elsewhere in this issue we publish an article from the Hamilton Herald relating to the wonderful cure of a gentleman in that city, who had been pronounced by physicians incurable, and who had been paid the $1000 total disability insurance granted members of the Royal Templars. The well known standing of the Times is a guarantee as to the entire reliability of the statements contained in the article.

Nature requires aid in correcting irregularities at this season, and for both men and women no other remedy equals Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a spring blood tonic. They supply all the constituents necessary to enrich the blood and build up the system. Sold by all dealers, or sent post paid on receipt of price—50c. per box, or five bottles for $2—by addressing Dr. Williams Med. Col., Brockvill Ont.

BACK FROM THE GRAVE.

A WELL KNOWN HAMILTONIAN SNATCHED FROM DEATH.

Had Been Given up by the Doctors and His Case Was Considered Hopeless—But He Recovered in a Miraculous Manner and is Now as Well and Strong as Ever.

Hamilton Herald, May 27th, 1891.

Although the age of miracles is generally supposed to be past, the case of John Marshall of 25 Little William street is about as nearly miraculous as anything that can be imagined. For three years and a half Mr. Marshall has been a victim of a disease known as locomotor ataxy, a spinal affection which deprived him of all feeling from his waist downwards, and left him a helpless cripple, given up by his physicians as incurable. To-day he is restored to health, and apart from the weakness natural to a man who has wrestled so long with a terrible disease, he may be said to be as well as ever. The story of his wonderful recovery has been heard with amazement by his many friends, for Mr. Marshall is well-known in Hamilton, having lived here for nearly 30 years, and for 20 years before his illness having been manager for the Canadian Oil Company here.

One of the Herald's young men heard of the case and hunted up Mr. Marshall to get his story, which he was not unwilling to tell, in hope that his experience might be of benefit to others who are affected similarly.

"I was taken ill in August, 1887," said Mr. Marshall, "and for three years and a half I was scarcely able to leave my room. My illness, I believe, was the result of a fall I had a year before, and it left me helpless. I had absolutely no sensation in my body below the waist, could not feel pins stuck in me, and was deprived of the use of my limbs. For more than three years I was not able to leave the house, any more than on very fine days I might go as far as the corner, and during all that time I was never down town. I had the best medical assistance, but the doctors all agreed I could not recover. I tried all kinds of patent medicines, but none of them did me any good. I also tried electricity, having as many as three batteries on me at once, but it was all of no avail.

"How did you come to recover?"

"In February last some one threw in a circular about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I laid it aside, thinking it was like all the others I had tried—no good. But on April 14th I decided to give them a trial, and got a box of the Pills. Within three days I noticed an improvement, and it has continued ever since, until I am as well as you see me. I considered it nothing short of a miracle, and my friends who know me can scarcely credit it. Why, last week, I got up one morning, took my bath, dressed myself, went to the station, took the train for Toronto and walked to my brother-in-law's, and he would not believe it was myself."

"You say you were given up by the doctors?"

"Yes, I spent hundreds of dollars in medical advice and in the purchase of all sorts of quack remedies. My physicians said my disease was incurable and that I would never be able to use my limbs again. I am a member of the Royal Templars, and I have been passed by the society's doctors as past recovery, receiving from it the total disability benefit of $1000. That is the best possible proof to me that my case was considered hopeless."

"How many boxes of the Pills have you taken?"

"I am now on my seventh box, but, as I told you, I got relief from the start. I consider my recovery to be wonderful, and I am recommending the remedy to every one who is afflicted as I was."

The propietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which have accomplished such a miraculous cure in Mr. Marshall's case, say the remedy is compounded from the formula of a well-known physician, and is unsurpassed for the treatment of all diseases arising from impoverished blood or loss of vital force.

The remarkable case noted in the above article from the Hamilton Herald, conclusively proves that the proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have in no way over-stated the merits of their remedy. Pink Pills are a never-failing blood builder and nerve tonic, and are equally valuable for men or women, young or old. They cure all forms of debility, female weaknesses, suppressions, chronic constipation, headache, St. Vitus dance, loss of memory, premature decay, etc., and by their marvellous action on the blood, build up the system anew, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow complexions. These pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid, on receipt of price (50 cents a box) by addressing the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cast Out the Demon.

A well-known American writer says: "It is fair to say that of the adult population not one person in ten is free from dyspepsia, and yet it is an entirely preventable disease, one for which there is absolutely no excuse."

Doctors who are called upon by dyspeptic people often err in their diagnosis, and treat for some other ailment. To those who suffer from this dreaded trouble, it is almost unnecessary to describe any of the symptoms. It will be well, however, to remind the sufferer of nausea, gnawing at the pit of the stomach, heartburn, variable appetite, dizziness, furred tongue, constipation and sallow skin. For dyspepsia and its attendant troubles that great scientific discovery, Paine's Celery Compound, goes direct to the root of the difficulty, and gives permanent relief. No other remedy of the present day has been so successful for the cure of this terrible disease. It does its work thoroughly, and builds up the body with flesh, bone and muscle; it gives strength to the nerves, and a look of freshness to the countenance which no other medicine can give. Try it dyspeptic sufferer, the result will make you happy!

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW,

SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when lo! Providence sent Dr. Healey, with the DRAGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

IMPORTANT LAND SALE

Monday, 15th June, 11 a.m.

Oak Bay Ave. & City Property

I have been instructed to sell at my sales rooms, Fort and Langley streets,

37 FINE LOTS 37

Fronting on Oak Bay avenue and adjacent streets, averaging about 65x120 each. This property is a subdivision of 10 acres, being a part of Section LXXIV, Victoria District. All these lots are very desirable building locations; the soil is first-class loam, having a good drainage. In fact there is no finer situation in the surrounding property, and is only a short distance from Fort street. The Electric Tram Cars will run past them in a short time (about 1st July). The Oak Bay avenue has been recently graveled, and there is no doubt but this will one of the finest and most fashionable drives from the city to the beautiful beach at the end of this avenue. These lots are all surveyed and staked off. Conspicuous posts will be placed on the land, so that a stranger will be able to go and inspect any of these lots with the aid of a map of the property now in the press, and which will be ready for distribution at an early date.

This is one of the best opportunities ever offered to acquire a good homestead, as they will be sold absolutely

WITHOUT RESERVE.

The terms are:—¼ cash; ⅓ six months; ⅓ twelve months, with interest at 7 per cent.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

Subdivision Lot 1, and part of Subdivisions 1, 2 and 3 of Suburban 5-acre lot, Lot 8, Victoria city, together with a large and commodious house and stables thereon. This property is on North Park street, and was formerly occupied by the late U. Nelson.

Terms of sale, cash.

—ALSO—

At corner of Oak Bay Avenue and Fort Street.

Lot One, on which is erected a fine and commodious two-story brick residence, with stone foundation, containing eight rooms and conveniences. There is a beautiful view of the Straits from this property.

LANDS AT

NEWCASTLE

NANAIMO,

On Saturday, June 20, 1 p.m.

I have been instructed by the E. & N. Railway Co. to sell by auction at the

OPERA HOUSE, NANAIMO

One Hundred Lots in the addition to

NEWCASTLE TOWN.

This land has been surveyed in town lots, and road ways are now being opened up through the land. The property commences at the water front of Nanaimo Harbor and runs back across the E. & N. Railway line, the lots are beautifully situated, having an easy grade, taking in an extensive view of the harbor and surrounding waters. This is the finest residential property surrounding Nanaimo, and, in the near future, will become valuable city property, through the construction of extensive wharves for the shipment of coal, and extensive coal boring operations in the immediate vicinity and other contemplated improvements now under consideration. Don't miss this golden opportunity of making a good solid investment in the

NEWCASTLE OF THE PACIFIC COAST.

A map of the property will soon be issued for distribution.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-third cash, one-third 6 months, one-third 12 months, with interest at 6 per cent. per annum. A rebate of interest will be allowed from the purchase money of those desiring to pay cash on the second and third payments.

CLOTHIERS

SUITS TO ORDER

CHEAPER THAN EVER.

Since the formation of a union amongst the tailors in Victoria prices for clothing have advanced to such an extent that people are sending East for their suits. And we don't blame them, either, if they can save from $10 to $20 a suit. We pay union prices simply because we have to; not that we consider it right.

We were paying our men the same wages before union prices were enforced that we paid them ten years ago, when we received from ten to twenty per cent. more for our suits.

We have from ten to fifteen thousand dollars invested in tailoring, and we propose to turn it over at least twice a year, regardless of profits. To do this we will make suits cheaper than we did before we paid high prices for making up. Good Tweed and Serge Suits, $25.

Irish Tweeds, $27, $28, $30 and $32. If any other tailor in town will prove that these goods are not genuine Irish Tweeds we will donate a Thousand Dollars to any charitable institution that he may name.

Black worsted suits $40. You will get the same goods for $48 or $50 elsewhere. We intend to make a specialty of tweed suits for $30; regular price is $35 to $40. We have the store for our other business; it costs us nothing for the tailoring department; we have the stock; we have a first-class cutter, and we have capital enough to run it if we don't make a cent. So now is the time to get cheap suits to order.

We are going through the stock marking everything down. Don't take everything for granted. See our new schedule of prices.

CHILI AND ITS PRESIDENT.

The trouble in Chili seems to have originated with BALMACEDA exclusively. Up to BALMACEDA's usurpation, Chili for more than half a century had enjoyed constitutional government. Under the constitution of 1833, she had enjoyed almost uninterrupted peace, and had made wonderful progress in civil and religious liberty. Every president had religiously observed its provisions and caused them to be maintained. Senor BALMACEDA was the first to violate the constitution and trample under foot precedent and tradition. On January 1, last, he issued a manifesto in which he declared he had been obliged to violate the constitution and that he would have to continue to violate it, and that he counted on the support of the army and navy. BALMACEDA sought to justify his violation of the constitution by charging that Congress had violated it by not voting the law fixing public expenditure and the naval and land forces. BALMACEDA's opponents declare this claim absurd, and point to article 28 of the constitution, which empowers Congress to fix annually the strength of the naval and land forces, and the expenses of public government. The constitution, as the anti-Balmacedists urge, does not say that Congress must pass such a law, but simply that the public expenses and the naval and land forces are subordinate to and can only exist in virtue of an annual law that shall authorize them. BALMACEDA, evidently, is going on what he considers is the intent of the constitution. Congress, however, proposes to stand by the constitution as it reads. That Congress is right and BALMACEDA wrong is altogether probable. The founders of the constitution, in empowering Congress to "fix" the strength of the naval and land forces, and the public expenditure, without enjoining that it should be done, left it optional with Congress not to fix those matters. The object of this is obvious. It would operate as a check on the executive to prevent him doing as he pleased with the army and navy, and of spending the public money as he wished. This, in brief, is the cause of civil war in Chili. There may be, and probably are, side issues, but they are not officially recognized. Senor BALMACEDA unquestionably is an usurper.

JEWISH COLONIZATION.

A petition has been presented to the United States Secretary of State, asking the Government to confer with other governments in regard to the settlement of Russian Jews in Palestine, and, is said, to contain a remarkable list of signatures from various parts of the country, and very fairly representing public opinion upon the subject. The proposition involved a large concession from the Turkish government, and, of course, a large expenditure of money. The Palestine plan is not new. In the memoir of LAURENCE OLIPHANT there is allusion to such schemes already undertaken. One of Mr. OLIPHANT's plans was such a colony in the "Land of Gilead," which should include the Dead Sea within its limits. He said that every Turk, from the Sultan down, approved of the scheme. OLIPHANT describes with enthusiasm the climate, the fertility of the soil, and the great variety of products which would reward the industry of the settlers. The minerals also were remarkable. The supply of chlorate of potassa was inexhaustible, he said, and petroleum, bitumen, and other ligaites awaited only the hand of the gatherer.

The universal unwillingness to receive the vast immigration that Russia's policy will compel, makes the problem of their disposition exceedingly obscure. No nation is willing to accept the population which Russia expels. Baron HIRSCH, in a recent interview, describes the horrors of the Russian expulsion, and treating it as the work of subordinates unknown to the Czar, he says that if the Czar will enforce the expulsion gradually—perhaps for a period of twenty years, but with a certain exodus every year—the funds necessary to settle the exiles elsewhere will be supplied. He thinks it is not so much the expulsion as its manner which is the disgrace to civilization, and he is confident that an appeal to the Czar would not be in vain.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The total debt of the Argentine Republic, which has a population of not more than 5,000,000, has increased in the past six years from $1,000,000,000 to $3,875,000,000. Last year there was a deficit of $44,000,000 in the federal accounts, and the provincial budgets showed an aggregate deficit of $27,000,000. It is not surprising, therefore, to hear that the five banks in Buenos Ayres have just been compelled to close their doors.

Mr. C. R. HUNTINGTON is credited with saying that if all the railways in the United States were under his control, he could reduce rates two per cent below those now prevailing, and still pay five per cent dividends to stockholders. This is not exactly nationalism, for HUNTINGTON would be an autocrat. It is a doctrine, however, which plays strongly into the hands of the Belamyites, a class of people for whom HUNTINGTON has no use.

The Royal assent has been given to the Behring Sea Bill, and the next step, it may be supposed, will be the clearing of the sea of obnoxious crafts. Since, as we understand it the sealers will be reimbursed for their losses, nothing mere remains to be said, except to express the hope that the reimbursing business will transpire at an early date. The sealers left to themselves would realize on their catch this fall. It is no more than fair therefore, that they realize on their damages by the expiration of the year 1891.

The ideal public bath-houses are in Birmingham, and are from eighty to one hundred feet long and from three to five feet deep. The poor bathe for a penny while the well to-do get towels and a dressing-room for twelve cents. These bath-houses develop swimming classes, and from these expert swimmers are made. Even tiny children are to be seen suspended in slings and supported, while they learn to strike out for themselves, by men who hold the slings at the end of long poles and walk around the sides of the tanks with them.

There was lots of money for someone in a certain English "collecting society for working-men," a sort of insurance company on a large scale, but for poor people. It appears from a statement in the House of Commons that the shareholders "received, in 1887, a bonus of £390,600 in addition to a dividend of four hundred per cent. upon their original capital," and this, notwithstanding that the cost of management is over two-fifths of the annual income. But how did the society get its money? We are told out of lapsed policies. "The working-man's loss is the company's gain."

All sorts of stories have been current for a long time about the vast amount of hoarded wealth possessed by Queen VICTORIA. Referring to this subject in the London Truth, Mr. HENRY LABOUCHERE says: "I was on the committee to consider the application for a grant of money from Parliament for the grand-children of the Queen. The amount of the savings of Her Majesty was stated confidentially to the committee. Of course, therefore, it would not be proper to say what this amount was. But there is no indiscretion in saying that they are far—very far—less than has been generally supposed. The reason for this is that, whether the sovereign lives in semi-privacy or in full state, the cost is almost the same, for there are the same number of officials and servants eating their heads off. A court is much like a theatre. The current expenses do not depend upon the number of the audience."

"HELLO, THERE!"

TO THE EDITOR:—What's the matter with the telephone? I call up "Central" and just as the charming voice is responding—"whirr," "bur," "whish" go the wires, which, somewhere or other are in contact with the tram car wires. To-day I heard, over the telephone line, the conductor on the Esquimalt line talking to the motoneer while on a standing car near the Half Way House, but it was impossible to hear anything that was said by the gentleman at the Esquimalt end of the line. I do not know which is to blame, the telephone company or the tram car company, but the annoyance to the general public is very great. It was not so before the tram car people came in to run things to suit themselves. The value of the telephone is certainly reduced one-half, and a little closer connection between its wires and the tram car wires will render it entirely useless. Perhaps the President of the tram car company is trying to "bear" the concern before he amalgamates it. WIRES.

STAMP COLLECTORS.

Enthusiasts Who Are Devoted to Their Hobby.

A Brief Outline of the History of Postage Stamp Collecting in This Country—An Extensive and Lucrative Business.

The enthusiasm of collectors of rare postage-stamps and the amount of money spent annually in the purchase of the little colored bits of paper will cause surprise when one remembers that stamps for postage first came into use in 1840, says the New York Times. It seems impossible that the demand for rare stamps has become so great that men arm themselves like explorers and visit countries infested by highwaymen to secure specimens of the stamp-maker's art. To-day there are millions of dollars invested in the business, which extends all over civilized countries, and is kept informed by about forty journals devoted to the interests of stamp collectors.

That rare postage stamps are literally hunted for with guns was verified by a collector of St. Louis, Mo., who recently returned from Mexico, whither he went for the purpose of obtaining specimens of the postage stamps in use in that country previous to 1872. Before that date envelopes were unknown in Mexico, and the postage stamps were pasted on the outside of the letter itself, which was made to answer the double purpose of letter and envelope. In order to secure these stamps it is necessary to get hold of old letter-files, and, as only letters of a business nature can be secured, the files of old merchant-houses offer almost the only means to the collector and dealer of getting at the coveted treasure. Family letters are never sold, and, indeed, it is seldom that owners of business letters will part with them, so the task of the collector in search of stamps in Mexico is not an easy one.

Through business connections the collector obtained access to the letter files of old firms in the City of Mexico, and some of these he was able to purchase. Hearing of an old house at Cuernavaca that would probably dispose of its files he decided to go there with his secretary, a Castilian. The town is about sixty miles southwest of the City of Mexico, and the road lies through a region infested by highwaymen.

When departing from the City of Mexico the stamp hunters were advised to leave all their valuables behind and arm themselves well, and they took the advice. They traveled part of the way by stage and part on horseback. They were not molested, for the road was at the time patrolled by mounted police for the entire distance.

"Stamp collecting," the collector says, "began almost as soon as the use of stamps become general, or about 1847. Great Britain used the first postage stamps in 1840. Brazil followed in 1845, and the United States in 1847. Before that postage was prepaid, as it is on express packages to-day. About 1863 the first journal devoted to the literature of postage stamps appeared in Belgium. It was a monthly publication, Le Timbre Poste. The first stamp paper started here was the Philatelic Journal of America in 1885. There are at present thirty to forty papers published in the interest of collectors, and six or seven of these are first-rate journals. There are now three incorporated companies in this country which deal in stamps. Two of these are capitalized at $50,000 each. New York has two companies and St. Louis one.

"The value of stamps, like every thing else in trade, is regulated by the simple law of demand and supply. If a wealthy collector is without a certain specimen that specimen has an increased value, whether it be rare or not. Rare stamps are therefore frequently not as valuable as more common ones wanted by rich collectors. But, generally speaking, stamps which have been in use only a short time are the most difficult to get and the most expensive. There is no danger of stamps of recent date becoming as rare as those of former issues. Before Great Britain sent stamps to Mauritius they were printed there in plates, twenty impressions at a time. The result was that each of the twenty was different from the others in some minor detail. A rich collector is not satisfied with one Mauritius, but wants one of every variety, and this, of course, makes them valuable.

"The highest price ever paid for a single stamp at public auction in New York City was $220 for a stamp issued by the postmaster at Brattleboro, Vt., before the Government issued stamps. A stamp issued at the New Haven post-office sold in St. Louis three years ago for $198. Much higher prices than these have been paid at private sale for early issues of stamps of British Guiana and Mauritius. Colonial governments often run out of stamps of a certain value, and, being unable to get them at once from the mother country, they stamp the desired value on other stamps. For instance, a French colony may run out of stamps valued at 50 centimes, and will print on their 25-centime stamps '50,' thus making a new issue. This will create a demand for this new variety when the supply of regular 50-centime stamps arrives.

"The government officers can therefore print any number of these 'emergency' stamps, hold them until they become rare, and then dispose of them to collectors. These are called 'surcharged' stamps, and the postmasters in the French provinces have made them so often, without any reason for doing so other than for their own private gain, that the sentiment against this kind of postage stamps has grown so strong that an 'anti-surcharged stamp association' has been formed in this country. Of course there are innumerable imitations made to sell to children and amateur collectors. These counterfeits are especially common in Germany and Switzerland. When there last summer I saw them displayed in shop windows of all the large cities. It is, of course, very easy for one familiar with stamps to detect a counterfeit."—N. Y. Times.

Elecutionary Contest.

Eight young ladies participated in the second contest for the Demorest medal in Temperance Hall last evening. All showed much study and care in their preparation for the event and as a result the recitations showed so much merit that the judges had a hard task in choosing which was best. Miss Hattie Nicholas, however, was the one chose on her rendering of "Nationalism vs. Sectionalism."

Sustained Her Reputation.

The recital of Miss Jessie Alexander at the Victoria theatre last night was a great success and she well sustained her reputation as being one of the most gifted elocutionists in the country. Her rare beauty and graceful carriage won the hearts of her audience at once, and they were only too glad to be generous in their applause. In humorous parts she was inimitable and her pathos almost brought tears from the audience.

Two streams of water made short work of the fire which originated in a quantity of straw and ashes. The loss will amount to less than ten dollars. Westminster-Vancouver.

The executive of the Lacrosse Club are endeavoring to arrange a friendly match with Vancouver, to be played either in this city or Vancouver this afternoon. The Queen's Park grounds being the best to play on, our men would prefer to have the match in the Royal City, but will go to Vancouver willingly if the Terminal City men insist. It is pretty certain the match will be arranged, and a splendid exhibition of the game may be expected. The failure of the Victoria Club to play on Saturday has caused general disappointment, but more especially to the first team men, who have been practicing so hard of late for the expected match.—Columbian.

A Ripe Old Age.

Professor Seward received a telegram to-day from his sister in New York, announcing the death of his grandmother, who had reached the ripe old age of 97 years. She was the wife of that celebrated surgeon Dr. Benj. Parker, who died several years ago. Of the seven children born, one died a few years ago at the age of 63 years, the remaining six range from 58 to 70 years of age. Of the 20 grandchildren 18 are living, and of the 23 great-grandchildren 20 survived. At the age of 84 she fell down a flight of stairs, breaking her collar bone and dislocating the shoulder, and in less than 90 days was travelling around as if nothing had ever happened. The burial will take place to-day from Prof. Seward's home in New York.

Wants His Money Back.

Wong Ng Chun has filed papers with Collector Milne to recover $50 based on the following facts: Last October he arrived at Vancouver on the Batavia and paid his $50 entrance fee. Shortly afterwards he applied for a return certificate at Victoria, but before he received it he went over to the States on a bogus W.S. return certificate, but was caught and brought back. On his return he was compelled to pay $50 to enter, as he was without a return certificate. He now claims that he has paid the entrance fee twice and demands the return of the last payment of $50, and has a lawyer employed to press his claim.

The matron of the Refuge Home begs to acknowledge with thanks the following donations for May: Mrs. Durham, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Alex. McDowell, a friend, Mrs. D. Spencer, Mrs. W. F. Bullen, Mrs. Gerow, Mrs. H. Kent, Victoria West English Church Festival, Mrs. A. Alexander, Miss Armstrong, Ladies Pandora Ave. Methodist church tea, and others.

At 10:30 the confirmation will take place, followed by the usual high mass. In both services the Bishop will be assisted by Fathers Nicolaye and Mandert.

An Important Sale.

An auction sale of more than ordinary importance will be held by Mr. George Byrnes, at his salesroom, Fort street, on Monday morning. He will sell 37 lots on Oak Bay avenue, on the line of the Oak Bay addition to the tramway. The lots are all desirable ones, with a good view and splendid soil. A two-story brick house on the corner of Oak Bay avenue, will also be sold, in addition to the late residence of the late N. Nelson, on North Park street. The latter is a splendid piece of property. The sale commences at 11 o'clock.

Police Court Record.

But two cases of any interest were before the Police Court this morning. The first was two siwashes and Thomas McNulty, the two former charged with having liquor in their possession and the latter with supplying it to them. The siwashes pleaded guilty and were fined £5, each, which they paid. Thos. McNulty, however, defended himself by saying that he had not supplied them with the whiskey as the bottle was in the room and they supplied themselves. The court found him guilty as charged and gave him three months in jail. The other case was four young people, two boys and two girls, whom an officer found in a barn on Broad street at an early hour this morning. They were charged with vagrancy and in a most unabashed way pled guilty as their names were called. After reading them a severe lecture on the evil of the life they were leading his honor gave them each one month in jail.

A Beautiful Trophy.

Mr. A. A. Clayton has just completed the manufacture of one of the most beautiful medals that has ever been seen in Victoria. It is made in three parts, each complete and unique in what it represents. The top bar represents the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes floating in the wind. The centre piece contains a miniature picture of the Gorge and bridge with Mlle. Laville accomplishing her daring feat of sliding down the wire across the Gorge, hanging on by her teeth. The pendant is a shield with chasad Roman gold edge, and raised gold disk, with the inscription in black enamelled lettering, encircled by a wreath of green gold leaves. The medal is a valuable trophy and is well worth a visit to Mr. Clayton's window, where it will be on exhibition for a few days. It is to be presented to Mlle. Laville in honor of her feat on the 24th of May.

Gamblers in Court.

The plimiary hearing of Alex. Anderson and G. H. Loomis, charged with swindling Christ. Ahlefelt out of $170 on board the Umatilla, came up before E. Johnson, S.M., in the provincial police court this morning. As soon as the court was called D. M. Eberts for the defence, asked that the case be discharged on the ground that the offence as charged, was committed on the high seas in an American bottom, and therefore the court had no jurisdiction. J. P. Wall, representing the prosecution, contended otherwise, and an hour's argument followed on the subject. His Honor agreed with the point taken by the defence, but at the request of the prosecution the case was laid over until Monday for further argument. The two prisoners were released on their own recognizance in the sum of $250 to appear at that time.

Agricultural Society.

A meeting of the board of directors of the British Columbia Agricultural Society was held in the council chamber last evening. There were present President Ker, and Messrs. Carter, Braden, Dalby, Pendry, Todd, Hayward, McKeown, Templeman, and Aldermen Munn and Holland, two of the trustees appointed to represent the city in the expenditure of the $25,000 voted by the ratepayers on Tuesday last.

President Ker explained the position of the negotiations with the street car company, for the extension of the service to the driving park, and the final completion of arrangements was placed in the hands of the trustees.

A motion offered by Mr. Hayward was carried, authorizing the purchase of three acres of land adjoining the driving park, at $500 an acre, when the trustees had completed a bargain with the street car company for the extension of the line.

The building committee was authorized to advertise for tenders for the erection of the proposed agricultural hall on Architect Soule's plans, which had been adopted at a former meeting, and to proceed with the same if a satisfactory tender is received.

Other questions of interest to the society were discussed, such as a supply of water for the new grounds, the proposed firemen's tournament, etc., and the meeting adjourned.

A GENEROUS OFFER.

The City Will Be Asked to Accept Mount Tolmie Park.

At the next meeting of the City Council Mr. J. H. Brownlee, who controls the Mount Tolmie Park, will offer 20 acres of property, including the summit of the mountain, to the city. The conditions are:

1. That the city take over the wide and well constructed carriage road now being built to the top of the mountain, and pay the actual cost of its construction.

2. That the city erect a neat and comfortable pavilion for the use of the public on the summit, at a cost of about $1000.

3. That the city construct and maintain an 8-foot path around the 20 acres so donated.

The total cost to the city would be only $5000, which is indeed small when compared to the valuable property that is offered. A full description of the beautiful piece of property has appeared in these columns before.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

The St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School at Langford Plains.

Six carloads full of happy, smiling children, with their friends and relatives, were at the E. & N. Railway station by 9:30 this morning, anxiously waiting for the locomotive to blow the signal for starting. The boys were armed with bats and other things that makes life to them worth living. The girls were in for pleasure, too, for all were attired in light and cool-looking dresses, and were ready to romp around on Langford Plains until the time is called. They were the Sunday School children of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church out on their annual picnic. All the way up the line they made the bushes ring with their merry shout, but oh! what a rush when the plains were reached. All anxious to get out on the large fields first, and start in for a day of thorough enjoyment. The boys immediately found good places for their games of football, baseball, lacrosse, cricket, etc., which sports they continued throughout the day, both for their own and the visitors benefit. The girls—well they, only know how well they enjoy themselves on occasion of the kind, running around, here, there and everywhere. At noon at which hour all were prepared to take a short rest, the merry throng sat down in the shade to luncheon, after which they continued their sports.

Another contingent went up and joined them by the 2 o'clock train, so that the grounds were well crowded. They will return by the trains leaving the plains at 4:30 and 7:30 this evening.

FINAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Eminent New York Optician Leaves for the East in a Few Days

And will Stop for a Short Time at Nanaimo and the Mainland Cities.

Mr. Seward regrets the necessity of his leaving Victoria while there are so many anxious to see him. His office will remain open an hour later each day during the remaining few days of his stay so as to accomodate as many as possible.

A large number of letters of gratitude have been received showing the grand result of the work done here, which has never been equalled before. Mr. Seward has proved his claim to be just, namely, as an expert optitian. He is second to no one in America.

ALUMINUM WHEELS FOR BICYCLES.

Bicycle riders are watching with interest the attempts of certain ingenious men to manufacture wheels out of aluminum. The wonderful metal's use has already proved beneficial when it is alloyed with steel, but thus far no wheels have been made of it wholly. As it is stronger and a great deal lighter than steel, and will not corrode its advantage over steel is very apparent. A steel racing wheel now weighs 24 pounds. If alluminum proves practicable, a racing wheel can be made that will weigh only about eight or nine pounds.

McLean has not acted in the way that he speaks because Peterson and his backers have done everything to bring the race on, while McLean has done everthing to put it off.

SCOTIA'S IMMORTAL BARD

BURNS' FARM HOME AT ELLISLAND, DUMFRIESSHIRE.

Beautiful Pen Picture of His Cottage by the Nith and His Happiness When, with His Jean, He Took Possession of It—The House Still Standing.

Special Correspondence of the TIMES.]

ELLISLAND, Scotland, June 2.—Pilgriming among the countless shrines created by the living presence of Robert Burns in southwestern Scotland, and looking down along the flaming shaft of light that links his genius and his world girding human love and magnanimity to the fadeless immortality of his memory and name, I have always felt that the one among them all which most breathes to the beholder the spirit of ineffable pathos and tenderness, was this, the bard's farm home of Ellisland.

In the period between May, 1788, at the age of twenty-seven years, and the end of the year 1791, when he came from this Ellisland farm to the three rooms in the "Wee Vennel," in Dumfries, a period of but four and one-half years, more personal hope and disappointment, joy and suffering, anguish from impulsive wrong doing and heaven of the purest domestic bliss, temptation and victory, agonized despair and triumph, were crowded into the poet's experiences, than fall to the lot of most great men in their entire lives. In this brief time, first he was disowned and deserted by Jean Armour, through the bitter and ever unreasoning opposition of her father. He was then betrothed to "Highland Mary" Campbell, the heroine of his immortal ode, "To Mary in Heaven," who shortly died of malignant fever at Greenock.

About 100 of his most characteristic poems were already written, and the now priceless first edition of the same had been issued from the rural press of Kilmarnock, in the county of Dumbarton. Twin children had been born to him out of wedlock by Jean Armour, of whom Robert, in after years a man of rare character and worth, survived the poet fifty-eight years, his decease occurring at Dumfries in 1857, and his body being interred in the Burns mausoleum in that city. Burns' local fame having attracted the attention of the literary coterie at Edinburgh, he was invited to that city, where he was "affiliated" at the famous lodge of Freemasons (which still meets in the veritable room then used) and subsequently "inaugurated" as its poet laureate, the latter event being the subject of a celebrated painting, while he was made the literary lion of the day, as new and enlarged editions of his poems appeared.

He then made a tour of the border counties of England and Scotland, and, untarnished by fame, returned to Mauchline, the old home spot in Ayr, drawn there by his true love for his Jean, who repented here renunciation, and with whom the former intimacy was renewed. The tour of the north was then made. Burns returned to greater Edinburgh literary triumphs. He was introduced to Mrs. Maclehose, the "Clarinda" of his famous correspondence, and again returning to his beloved Jean, took her secretly to Tarbolton Mill, where twins, both of which died, were again born to them. Being now independent of scandalous opposition, Burns publicly and proudly "acknowledged" Jean Armour as his wife, then as sacred and binding a marriage in Scotland as any other, and in this instance necessary only because debarred formal marriage by the wife's parents, who thus were solely responsible for the cloud upon the poet's marital record. Burns also "satisfied" the church, which in those days was not so very difficult of "satisfaction." He was also in a position to "satisfy" Jean's parents, for on settlement with Creech, his Edinburgh publisher, the then astounding sum of $2,500 was found to be at his disposal.

Then came the brief, bright days. Magnanimously generous always, much of this sum, the first and last good fortune Burns ever knew, went to Jean's parents, and to assist his brother, Gilbert Burns, in averting disaster in the latter's farm life efforts. His lucky meeting with the ingenious and kindly Patrick Miller, of Dalswinton hall, had occurred. It had been settled that the poet, who hated the city with a royal hatred, should return to the plow. The nobility of the day never quite forgave this plebeian longing and love, the source of his grandest inspirations. This beautiful farm of Ellisland, five miles above Dumfries, was taken at a rental of fifty pounds per year. Burns, unaided, began his farm labors the first Monday after Whitsunday, 1788. He toiled manfully until the autumn of that year, meantime singing many a lusty song to his absent wife, and built the lovely cottage which stands here embowered in roses to this day. And then was celebrated the simple but glorious home coming, when, with rustic rites, and his bonny Jean upon his arm, "preceded by a peasant girl carrying the family Bible and a bowl of salt," he marched proudly into his little home heaven beside the winding Nith.

All evidences agree that in the brief period of a trifle over two years, between Whitsunday, 1788, and Martinmas, 1791, Burns and his good Jean experienced an Eden of labor and love, despite their final enforced departure. It was also the period of Burns' best and greatest poetic fecundity. But more children came to them. These must be supported. The crops failed, and inevitable ruin was approaching. It was then that, to save his wife and children from actual want, he was forced to accept the government position of excise man, at the beggarly pittance of £50 per year! The five remaining years of his life—after the post, his Jean and their three children, Robert, Francis Wallace and William Nicol, removed to the humble lodgings, their first home in Dumfries—checkered, sad, pathetic beyond comprehension, are known to all.

Leaving the quaint old city of Dumfries, you cross the "new brig" to the west, and are at once in the pretty braeside hamlet of Maxwelltown, famous wherever heart songs are sung for that one inexpressibly tender ballad, equal to any that Burns himself gave the world, matchless "Annie Laurie." Then the highway—the ancient coach road between Dumfries and Glasgow—winds over brae and hill, through dale and dingle, over beck and burn, through shadowy avenues and patches of sunshine, past deserted clachans and now silent olden inns of call, with the songs of streams and birds ever in your ears, all the distance to Ellisland. Once past the outlying habitations of Maxwelltown you will see down there to the right the picturesque ruins of Lincluden abbey, but a few moments' walk from the highway. Beneath the shadows of its majestic walls lies Margaret, daughter of Robert III, king of Scotland.

If you will wander but a little distance on that road leading to the left you will come to the ancient church of Irongray. Here is the grave of Sir Walter Scott's "Jeanie Deans" (Helen Walker), and the inscription on the table tombstone was written by the author of Waverly himself. This picturesque old bridge at which you tarry—for there is a pretty scene of sheep washing going on beneath the giant willows just above—crosses the river Cluden, a small stream, but a tuneful one. It bounds along merrily through copse and between emerald haughs below, sweeps around the ancient abbey walls, and, entering the Nith, broadens into a deep pool or linn. Hence linn-Cluden, "the Cluden pool," and the name of the grand old monastic pile, Lincluden Abbey, which towers at its edge above.

You finally come to a bit of almost champaign country. Comfortable steadings with snug stone cottages lie on either side of the highway. To the right is an ancient gate, opening to a long lane, hedge bordered, between well kept fields, where the young grain is already rich and green. The wagonway is thick with the falling blossoms of the hawthorn. The hedge banks are a mass of gladsome daisies. A tiny burn, having its source in springs above, wimples at one side, half hidden in the grass and daisies. And at the end of this lane, just over a ridge of warm and yellowy loam, are seen the low roofs of a cottage and its humble outbuildings, here and there half hidden in the foliage of surrounding trees. This is Ellisland, for four years the farm home and home heaven of Robert Burns, the only spot on all this earth where comfort and happiness were his.

From the highway Ellisland is disappointing. The ridge of the steading fields forms a monotonous horizon line. But Burns knew where to build his Nithside nest. From any point in the vicinity of the onstead or farm buildings there is a glorious view of the valley of the Nith. The house faces to the east and north a gentle bend in the Nith, which murmurs here over the shining shallows not a hundred yards distant. With the outbuildings and their connecting rubble walls a sunny, nearly inclosed quadrangle is formed. The side next the distant highway to the west has to the right, as you enter the inclosure, a stable and cowhouse, and a byre or feeding and straw yard behind. To the left is a mill shed, a modern structure, a tiny barn, and behind the latter (which, with the stable and cowhouse, stand precisely as Burns built them) is the inclosed stackyard where bonnie Jean found her husband in that great agony of dejection which gave the world the matchless hymn to Mary in heaven.

The house itself, into the construction of which the poet put months of his own labor, working alongside the rustic stonemasons of the time, remains to this day exactly as he built it. A small kitchen has been added on the side next the river, which now, as then, is the front of the house. The portion built by Burns is of rubble, about 55 feet long and nearly 20 in width. It is one story in height, with an ample attic. There is a large room about 18 feet square at each end. The entrance from the Nithside was into a hallway, from which these two large rooms were reached. Out of this one could also pass to the attic above, and to a small kitchen which, with a little bedroom, stands between the two larger rooms. Of the latter, the one at the left or north end, which communicates with the little bedroom, was used by Burns for the ceremonious entertainment of distinguised guests.

The other, at the south end, was the real heart of the home—the "spence" or living room of the poet, his wife and bairns. The family provisions were kept here. In one end stood the bed. The meals were eaten here. And here the companions that Burns loved came into the ingle-nook glow. Beside the fireplace is a broad, low window. Against the side wall stood an oaken table, and here the poet in this sunny corner could feast his eyes upon the flowers and vines of his own little garden, let them dwell fondly upon his cattle and pet sheep in the billowy field beyond, or conjure glorious fancies from the noble sweeps of Nithsdale's broad southern expanse, crowded at its eastern edge with noble forests and the huge gables of Dalswinton hall. By this little window Burns either composed or put into completed manuscript form the greatest amount of the greatest work of his life. How we prize the least reminder of these royal fellows when they are gone!

There are those who would pay $1,000 each for two of the tiny panes in that one sunny window. On one Burns wrote with a diamond and afterward partially erased, "Home he had not—home is the resort;" on the other he inscribed his favorite maxim, "An honest man's the noblest work of God." These inscriptions, the house and outbuildings and a few sturdy trees the poet planted are the only visible relics of the bard's life at Ellisland, for the spot is one of the few in Britain, more grace to it, that is not a show place where the insistent reminder of the endlessness of fees merges reverence and emotion into ridicule and contempt.

The almost exclusive haunt of Burns at Ellisland was within call of his bonnie Jean just below the high bank or scaur, upon the edge of which the cottage stands. Between this and the Nith for a long distance to the north and south runs a lovely river road. Out of the cottage inclosure a shaded path and wagon way descends to join the river road. Half way down this almost sylvan way is a copious spring. The bank of the scaur side in the shade is a mass of ferns and violets, and in the sunshine a wondrous constellation of "wee crimson tipped flowers," the daisies of Scotland, for which Burns felt something akin to adoration. Then came the silvery shallows of the Nith. Beyond its stream, leading to the meadow lands above, is a haugh, a golden mass of waving broom. Along this dreamful way, and up and down the river road, Burns sauntered and dreamed. It was the scene of his most ecstatic achievement, "Tam o' Shanter," which the celebrated Alexander Smith thought, as it was written in a day, the best single day's work done in Scotland since Bruce fought at Bannockburn.

Ellisland originally comprised 170 acres of land. The lease to the poet was for four terms of nineteen years. It was executed in March, 1788, and would have expired by limitation in 1854. Burns was to pay £50 per year for the first three years, and £70 thereafter, and the owner allowed the poet £300 toward the erection of the cottage and outbuildings. I find the present owner to be one Dr. J. M. Taylor, of Spittlefield, Dunkeld. The steading has been reduced from 170 acres to 100 acres, and it is now leased for the usual nineteen years' term, fifteen of which have expired, to a family of hard working and intelligent Scotch farmers named Grierson, at a rental of $150 per year. The old guidwife, Dame Grierson, seems to live in a sort of halo of reverential grief for him who made her farmstead hallowed ground. "Puir body! puir body!" she is constantly moaning beside you; "puir body, he was dwanged (harassed) to his dede-ill (mortal sickness)!"

MOVING PLANTS.

Interesting Facts About the Mysterious Organisms Called Bacteria.

Bacteria are not insects or "bugs," says the Popular Science News, but plants. They have, however, the power of spontaneous motion. Like other living things they take in matter and potential energy and give off matter and manifest energy.

In common with all vegetables not possessing chlorophyll they require organic food for the maintenance of life, but they can subsist upon food that contains no proteid, being able to take nitrogen and sulphur from inorganic sources and carbon from organic sources, and with water they build up proteid material. They share respiration in common with all living things, taking in oxygen and giving off carbon dioxide. Certain bacteria, however, do not require free oxygen, being able to unlock it from the substances in which they exist; and certain chemical processes attributable to them evidently depend upon this power of unlocking oxygen from stable compounds. Bacteria are very widely distributed, being present in the atmosphere in vast numbers, and also existing in earth and water. They cover the surface of our bodies and line our entire alimentary canals; fortunately, however, they are chiefly of the benign variety, which will not thrive in living tissues—hence called non-pathogenic.

These micro-organisms are among the smallest objects which the microscope reveals. A very common form of bacteria is that known as the bacterium termo, which is an elongated, rod-like cell about 1-25,000 of an inch in breadth and less than twice its breadth in length. It is non-pathogenic, easily killed by antiseptics, and is always found in putrefying or septic fluids; hence it is sometimes called the carrion or septic fungus.

Cold (32 degrees Fahrenheit) suspends the animation of bacteria, but does not kill them; many withstand a much lower temperature. Boiling water kills many bacteria, but those that are in the condition of spores can withstand a much higher temperature or can withstand the temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit for a much longer time than can the mature bacterium. In general terms extremes of heat have a more destructive action to bacteria than extremes of cold. Heat without moisture does not necessarily destroy the lives of all bacteria, but renders some simply inactive.

AN INGENIOUS CIPHER.

How the Friends of a French Thief Got Themselves into Jail.

Some years ago, says the Detroit Free Press, the friends of a Parisian chief adopted a decidedly unique method of carrying on a clandestine correspondence with him while he was awaiting trial. One day the jailer was visited by the prisoner's betrothed, who asked him to give her lover an envelope. This upon being opened was found to contain simply a small lock of her hair, around which was folded a leaf of a book. The jailer did not consider it worth his while to deliver this souvenir to the culprit, and, therefore, threw it aside.

A day or two later a similar inclosure was handed in at the prison gate and shared the fate of its predecessors. In the course of a week another was left by the same person. This aroused the suspicion of the governor of the prison, who had been detailed the circumstances. He determined to investigate the meaning and accordingly first examined the printed leaf. This he found was torn from a novel and contained twenty-six lines on each side. He then turned his attention to the hair and discovered that there were twenty-six pieces of unequal length. This puzzled him for awhile, and then suddenly jumping to the conclusion that there must be some connection between the number of the printed lines and the number of hairs, he laid each of the latter along the line of the page they respectively reached, beginning with the shortest hair at the top of the leaf. After changing them about several times he discovered that each hair pointed to a different letter, and the combination thus produced formed a long sentence, by means of which the prisoner was given to understand that his friends had ascertained the day on which he was to be taken to court and were determined to make a bold attempt to rescue him as soon as he made his appearance.

Taking the cue, the governor adopted every precaution to frustrate the well-laid plans of the outsiders; the attempt was made and, as a natural consequence, the conspirators soon found themselves in the same condition as the one for whom they had planned the rescue.

The Tiger's Courage.

The Bengal tiger has more courage than the lion, according to a showman, who states that the matter was tested in this manner: "We placed a shooting cracker in the respective cages and fired the fuses. As soon as the fuses began to burn they attracted the attention of both animals, but in a widely different manner. The lion drew into a corner and watched the proceedings with a mistrustful and uneasy eye. The tiger, on the contrary, advanced to the burning fuse with a firm step and unflinching gaze. On reaching the cracker he took his paw and began to roll it over the floor, and when it exploded beneath his very nose he did not flinch, but continued his examination until perfectly satisfied. The lion betrayed great fear when he heard the report of the explosion and for quite a time could not be coaxed out of his den."

Deceptive Telegraph Poles.

In Java the woodpeckers bore into the telegraph poles, deceived by the ringing sound made by the wires into the belief that insects are concealed in the wood. In Norway the woodpeckers have been found to bore into the poles, but more curious is the fact that in Norway bears have torn away the large stones placed at the bottom of the poles, deceived by the sound into thinking that bees and their store of honey were to be found beneath.

GENUINE HUMANITY.

A Touching Instance of Kindly Human Nature.

A writer in the Boston Democrat relates an incident which proves that genuine humanity is not confined to those who are sufficiently well-to-do to contribute liberally to the funds of humane societies. The writer was passing along one of the business streets of Boston early on a summer morning, at an hour when few people had risen. The streets lined only with stores and warehouses were almost deserted.

Presently he saw a working-man, carrying a dinner-pail in his hand, come around a corner. The man wore soiled and tattered clothes, and looked as if he might be making his way to the docks or coal-yards for a long day's work.

Just at this moment a thin and forlorn cat came out of an alley and walked toward the passing working-man, mewing piteously. The man stopped, bent down and stroked the cat, which responded by arching its back, rubbing against the man's legs and hand, and mewing louder and louder.

"Hungry, I'll be bound," said the working-man. "Some one's gone and left ye."

He opened his dinner-pail, took out one of two sandwiches which were there, opened it and removed the piece of corned beef that was between the slices of bread, and gave the meat to the cat, breaking the beef up and feeding it to the animal bit by bit.

Just as the cat was greedily eating the last of the meat, a small and very lean and dirty dog came running up, looking wistfully at the proceeding. The cat made no movement toward flight. The dog was evidently an acquaintance.

"Companions in distress!" said the working-man. He said nothing more, but, taking the other of the two sandwiches out of his pail, opened that, removed the meat, and fed it to the dog. Then he went on to his day's work without any meat for his own dinner, but leaving the cat purring contentedly, and the dog lying in a sunny doorway, with the air of one who says:

"Fate can not harm me—I have dined to-day."

Some National Characteristics.

A foreign writer has been at pains to give a category of the points of difference between the typical women of the three leading nationalities. It is not recommended as an infallible one, but it certainly is interesting. "A French woman loves to the end of her honeymoon, the English woman her whole life, the German woman forever. The French woman takes her daughter to the ball, the English woman takes her to church, the German woman gives her employment in the kitchen. The French woman has spirit and imagination, the English woman has little taste, the German woman modesty. The French woman chats, the English woman speaks, the German woman renders decisions. The Spanish woman kills her lover in jealousy, the French woman her rival, the German woman simply renounces, but all at some time marry some one else."

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. In its preparation, its medicinal merit, and the wonderful cures it accomplishes Hood's Sarsaparilla is Peculiar to Itself. Thousands testify to its success, and the best advertising Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends. Every testimonial we publish, and every statement we make on behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla may be relied upon as strictly true in every respect.

If you need a good blood purifier or building up medicine, be sure to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Further information and statements of cures sent free to all who address us as below.

CARIBOO STAGE ROBBERY.

The Prisoner Rowland Convicted and Sentenced to Five Years.

On Monday morning last the assizes at Clinton were opened before Mr. Justice Walkem. The Crown counsel asked for an adjournment until Tuesday morning, to enable certain witnesses to be present who were coming from Cariboo. On Tuesday morning the Crown preferred four bills for robbery and receiving stolen property against Martin Van Buren Rowland, for the stage robbery on the 14th of July last, and the grand jury, after an hour's absence, returned true bills. The trial of the prisoner commenced about 12 o'clock. The Crown had a great number of witnesses, but no distinct evidence as to identity of the prisoner as to being the stage robber, the other evidence being circumstantial, the robber's disguise being so complete it was impossible to identify him. On the arrest of the prisoner in November last, he made a written statement to Mr. Harvey, of Kamloops, giving a detailed account of the different places he had visited and prospected at during the last two years, ending with the Scotty Creek claim, the place where the prisoner claimed he obtained the gold found in his possession. Upon this point the Crown directed its attack. Gold experts and miners from Cariboo gave testimony that the gold found on the prisoner was like the gold that came from Fraser River, Cottonwood and other places in Cariboo, and unlike the gold that came from Scotty Creek; that the prisoner's sluice boxes were so rudely constructed that it would be impossible to save all the gold in a claim that the prisoner said had paid him $50 per day without leaving color in the tailings. The tailings had been examined and no color could be found in them, and several of the Chinese had visited the claim on Scotty Creek and tried to obtain color by washing the dirt but without success. The prisoner had stated that he had washed up three times and retorted or cooked his gold twice or three times, but the gold found in possession of prisoner contained from 50 to 75 pieces that had been retorted separately and a great portion of it had been unnecessarily amalgamated and doctored.

The case for the crown was closed on Wednesday afternoon. The counsel for defence did not call any witnesses, but argued that no evidence had been given as to identification of the prisoner as the robber and that it was impossible to identify the gold in court as the gold in the iron safe on the day of the robbery.

After addresses by counsel, Mr. Justice Walkem charged the jury in a very able and eloquent manner.

The jury retired, and after an absence of half an hour, returned with a verdict of guilty on the second count, viz receiving stolen property.

The prisoner was sentenced to five years. The three other indictments against him stand over until next assizes.

Mr. S. Perry Mills conducted the case for the Crown, and Mr. J. Campbell and Mr. Wm. Whittaker appeared for the prisoner.

The gold bars are supposed to be buried in the Bonaparte River, and it is expected that in the course of a day or two the iron box will be recovered within a short distance of where the robbery took place.

THE KOOTENAY MINES.

H. E. Croasdaile Returns from a Trip to the Interior.

Mr. H. E. Croasdaile, manager of the Silver King Mining Company, returned on Thursday evening from an extended trip through the Kootenay country, visiting Nelson, Ainsworth and other mining camps. The Kootenay country said Mr. Croasdaile to a TIMES reporter is undoubtedly the richest mining camp on the Pacific Coast. Prospectors are out all through the district and new claims are being recorded every week. The Trail Creek Mines, where a low grade of ore is taken out, are all passing into the hands of Spokane Falls capitalists. On the Silver King Mine development work has been pushed all winter and the lower tunnel is now in 500 feet. A large amount of good ore was taken out of the tunnel and shaft and an unlimited amount is now showing up. It is of the highest grade so that the owners are perfectly satisfied that it will prove a bonanza. When mining operations are commenced a large number of men will be employed.

Development is being rapidly pushed on the Dander Mine and like the rest it is proving rich. W. J. Goepel's claim, known as the Whitewater Mine is also good and the company expect to be crushing by the end of this week.

There is all probability of a smelter being established near the mines this season as the cost of taking the ore to Revelstoke would be too heavy.

The wagon road from Nelson to the mines will be completed in about five weeks, there being 75 men at work on it. Six miles out of the 10 has been completed already and is very satisfactory.

Nelson property is held pretty high at present and the residents are confident of a boom as soon as mining operations commence.
